What We're Learning...

We are continuing to learn about Simple Machines. So far, we have learned about how inclined planes help us move things, how levers are used, and how screws hold things together. We will start to end the study by learning about what the types of simple machines are and how we use them and who works with simple machines everyday. Following this study, we will start the pet study and learn about so many different types of things that have to do with pets!
